Our Academy Vision

We have a vision of a community in which each person is offered the opportunity to fulfil their potential and to understand themselves to be valued for who they are. Through a stimulating and challenging learning environment, we pursue academic excellence and seek the flourishing of all members of the school community. As inclusive and caring church schools, our commitment is to help pupils become thoughtful, open-minded and compassionate human beings who have the knowledge, skills and motivation they need to bring about positive transformation in the world.

“Do all the good you can, by all the means you can, in all the ways you can, in all the places you can, at all the times you can, to all the people you can, as long as you ever can.”

John Wesley

A Health Promoting Academy

Background and Rationale:

AAT believes that good health and well-being is central to effective learning and preparation for successful, independent living. We recognise that everyone is created in the image of God and we value their individuality as they explore their own God given talents and are treated with respect and dignity at all times.

If our nation's health is to improve in the long term as well as promoting positive mental health and social wellbeing, then our children must be the focus.

Within health and wellbeing, physical education can build learners' physical competences, improve aspects of fitness, and develop personal and interpersonal skills and attributes in preparation for leading a fulfilling, active and healthy lifestyle.

Each school has a team of Mental Health First Aiders who have completed specific training. They are also trained ELSAs – Emotional Literacy Support Assistants. They can offer advice and support to individuals or small groups of children, and may also form part of support for the wider family.

“A positive state of mind and body, feeling safe and able to cope, with a sense of connection with people, communities and the wider environment.” NHS England 2014

“Learning in health and wellbeing ensures that children and young people develop the knowledge and understanding, skills, capabilities and attributes which they need for mental, emotional, social and physical well-being now and in the future. Schools should have role to play in supporting children to be resilient.” Public Health England

Aims:

Through our curriculum, learning and teaching in health & well-being, we aim to enable our children to;

- make informed decisions in order to improve their mental, emotional, social and physical well-being
- experience and have the ‘courage’ to take on challenge and the enjoyment of achievement
- experience positive aspects of healthy living and activity for themselves
- apply their mental, emotional, social and physical skills to pursue a healthy lifestyle
- make a successful move to the next stage of education
- establish a pattern of health and wellbeing which will be sustained into adult life, and which will help to promote the health and well-being of the next generation of children
- be encouraged to ‘persevere’ with their learning and experience new learning opportunities
- show ‘compassion’, ‘forgiveness’ and ‘respect’ to help them to maintain and strengthen their friendships
- live out our Christian Values to enable them to make more informed decisions later in life as broad-minded citizens

Assessment and Reporting:

Assessment will focus on children’s knowledge and understanding, skills and attributes in relation to physical education, food and health, substance misuse, relationships and their social and life skills. Teachers and learners will gather evidence of progress as part of day-to-day learning inside and outside the classroom and, as appropriate, through specific assessment tasks. From Early Years through to Y6, our children’s progress will be seen in how well they are developing and applying their knowledge, understanding and skills in, for example, key features of healthy living and relationships, and in approaches to personal planning, assessing risk and decision making.

For example:

- To what extent do they understand the role of healthy eating and physical fitness in contributing to their wellbeing?
- how well are they applying personal and interpersonal skills as part of their daily lives, and developing them as they grow and mature?

- through their involvement in planning, managing and participating in individual and group activities in school and in the community, do they demonstrate skills, attitudes and attributes which will be important for the world of work, such as judgement, resilience and independence?

Progression in knowledge, understanding and skills can be seen as children and young people demonstrate that they are:

- having the courage to apply their knowledge and skills with increasing confidence and competence in dealing with familiar circumstances and new challenges.
- showing respect and developing an increasing depth of understanding of their own and others' motivations, attitudes, beliefs and behaviours.
- extending the range of their relationships both inside and outside of school.

Assessment will also link with other areas of the curriculum, within and beyond the classroom, offering our children opportunities to apply their knowledge and skills in more complex, demanding or unfamiliar learning or social contexts.

Outcomes:

By taking responsibility for Health and Wellbeing pupils will:

- Explore physical factors in relation to health and looking after ourselves
- Explore emotions, feelings and relationships and how they affect mental well-being
- Explore the interaction of the individual, community and the environment in relation to health and personal safety.

This will be covered using six areas of Health and Wellbeing in the Curriculum. These are:

- Mental, Emotional, Social and Physical wellbeing (Jigsaw, P.E. and Science)
- Planning for Choices and Changes (Jigsaw)
- Physical Education, Physical Activity and Sport (P.E.)
- Food and Health (Science and P.E.)
- Substance Misuse (Jigsaw)
- Relationships, Sexual Health (SEAL, Jigsaw)

The Health and Wellbeing experiences and outcomes allow a fair degree of flexibility in their use and can be amended to suit the needs of individual schools.

Specific issues:

Within the wider context of taking responsibility for health lies the need to ensure that appropriate structure and coherent learning experiences are provided by the school. The issues below form an integral part of our Trust's Health and Wellbeing experiences and outcomes. Due to the importance and sensitivity of these issues, advice and guidance for them is found in separate policies.

- Anti-Bullying
- Relationships and Sex Education
- Drugs Education
